Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 6-11 are allowable over prior art.

2. The following is an Examiner's statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter based on Applicant's Amendment filed on December 7, 2006:

As in claim 6, the prior art of record fail to teach or fairly suggest a recording medium having the following features:

(a) the recording medium provided with first and second track areas formed as adjacent first and second lands that each have a wobble wall spaced from one other by a groove that is not itself a track area; and

(b) the first and second lands each also having a non-wobbled side wall opposite the wobbled side wall of the associated one of the first and second lands; the first and second track area provide an adjusting area 5 to show correspondence of a wobbling polarity to the first and second track areas.

As in claim 9, the prior art of record fail to teach or fairly suggest a recording medium having the following features:

(a) the recording medium provided with a first and second track areas formed as adjacent first and second grooves that each have a wobble wall spaced from one another by a land that is not itself a track area; and

(b) the first and second grooves each also having a non-wobble side wall opposite the wobble side wall of the associated one of the first and second grooves; the first and second track areas provides an adjusting area to show correspondence of a wobbling polarity to the first and second track areas.

The features indicated above, in combination with the other elements of the claims, are not anticipated by, nor made obvious over, the prior art of record.
